RUIN IS LEFT IN THE TRAIL OF BAD STORM

Telephone Companies in this Vicinity Suffer Worst Losses in History from Stricken Lines

HUNDREDS OF MILES OF WIRES AND POLES ARE BROKEN DOWN

Many Cities and Villages are in Darkness With Electric Wires Down

Two or three months will be required to repair the damage to telephone lines resulting from the unprecedented storm which swept over this section Wednesday. Many rural telephone lines were practically ruined, all poles and wires being down.

At Vienna the telephone company's damage is estimated at $25,000, at Tomah $25,000, at Kaukauna $15,000, at Viola $10,000. Practically every rural telephone company in this section suffered in proportion from the weight of ice which snapped off poles and broke hundreds of miles of wires.

La Crosse Escaped

So far as wire damage is concerned, La Crosse got off easily, the temperature here being several degrees higher than east, north and south of the city. The only rural telephone line in this locality which escaped damage is that leading to Coon Valley. This line does not cross Brinkman ridge, but instead follows the valley. On Brinkman ridge all lines are down.

The La Crosse Telephone company announced it again had toll lines open to Vienna and Minneapolis. Deprived of its leased wire for two days, the Tribune today began to receive its press report from Minneapolis temporarily.

Tackle Big Job

An army of linemen is engaged in repairing the toll lines in an effort to restore communication between terminals. Until these through lines are restored nothing will be done with the rural lines. Trailways of poles and wires will be required to rebuild the stricken telephone lines. Three or four months will elapse before some of the lines can be rebuilt. Financing of the work of rebuilding the lines will be a difficult problem for some of the smaller companies. It was said today, although it is expected required money will eventually be obtained for each utility.

Manager Nelson of the Viola Telephone company arrived in La Crosse this morning by auto. He reported conditions in Viola as follows: The city is in darkness as if hit by a tornado, with practically all wires and poles down and trees and poles strewn across the streets.

In Viola a flood caused by the Kickapoo river overflowing its banks, which were jammed at the bridges, put the electric light plant out of commission.

Villages in Darkness

Several of the cities and villages in the vicinity of La Crosse are in darkness as a result of electric light wires being down. Among the places deprived of lighting service are Sparta, West Salem, Trempealeau and Vienna.

Street car service in La Crosse today was practically normal. On account of ice on the tracks, the main street cars are running only as far as Twentieth street, on the Myrick track line the cars run to Seventeenth street.

Scenes of Desolation

La Crosse County is a wilderness, and far to the east and north the country is as if out from the world as in the days when Wisconsin first became a state as a result of the storm that swept over the region Wednesday night Thursday. The remains of a forest of timber has been destroyed.

Everywhere in the wake of the downpour of sleet, rain and snow, telephone and telegraph wires are down, roads are blocked, and crops and standing rivers are overflowing.

In the meadows and lowlands along the La Crosse and Black rivers practically all trees are stripped of branches or bent double with their tops frozen in the ice, giving the observer an unobstructed view of the lowlands in their entirety.

Trees Are Ruined

At the farm home of P. M. Hanson, in Council Bay, north of Holmen, a grove of Maples and Cotton Woods were stripped almost clean of branches from the weight of sleet and ice fastened. In them to a thickness of more than an inch. The debris of branches lay broken across to the premises by a heavy load. The same wreckage is found in the groves and meadows and towns of all adjoining farms. Small trees are overloading and ravages are now small rivers. All telephone lines are down and many of the line poles loaded. The devastation continues southward in the country within a few miles north of the city, which has luckily escaped the worst of one of the worst storms known to have swept this region.

Miss Burkhardt, county nurse, who arrived from Racine, reported that (Continued on page 18)

BALFOUR EXPLAINS WHY FRENCH WRITER MADE BRITISH MAD

Says Expert's Plans for Submarine War on Britain Had to be Considered

WAS NOT VIEW OF FRANCE BUT COULDN'T BE IGNORED

Says that Ideas Were Much Like Those of Germany

LONDON.—The alleged misleading quotations by Lord Lee of the British delegation to the Washington conference from articles by "Castex" on submarine warfare, which appeared in the Review Maritime in 1920, came up for discussion in common Thursday. In reply to a question as to whether an explanation could be given of this and whether this question or quotation affected adversely the proposals to reduce the submarine armament of the leading naval powers, A. J. Balfour, who was head of the British mission, said that numerous points should be borne in mind regarding the submarine discussions at Washington.

See Threat to Britain

The statement of "Castex," he declared, did not commit the French admiralty, government or people, but his view could not be ignored. An important part of the first article expressed the German views on war, and in the course of this exposition the notorious passage occurred, respecting the unique value of this weapon for the purpose of accomplishing the final rule of British seapower.

"But it has to be observed," continued Mr. Balfour, "that though this statement was circulated in the statement of German opinion, with which 'Castex' was in agreement, he was entitled to plead that this agreement did not extend to every sentence in the statement contained. We could not conclude that he desired the destruction of England, but only that, if he did, unrestricted submarine warfare would be the maritime weapon on which he probably would rely."

Approved U-Boat War

Mr. Balfour said "Castex" saw himself in the German practice and thought, as Great Britain did, that submarine warfare with its cruelty was both useless and stupid. But for submarine warfare properly conducted, "Castex" had nothing but approval.

This question arose—was submarine warfare properly conducted? It appeared to permit the destruction without warning and without examination of merchant vessels and liners, as well as their passengers and crews. "Now," it was thus, very opportunely, Mr. Balfour added, "Castex" proudly claimed, which were originally devised by French ingenuity, that came under review by the Washington conference, and under Mr. Balfour's guidance, the governments of France, Italy, Japan, the United States and the British empire unanimously declared that they were grossly immoral and it was the perpetrators of those who were pronounced liable to be punished as pirates."

FOUR MORE BROKER FIRMS GO UNDER IN NEW YORK STORM

District Attorney's Probe Uncovers Alleged Buckeling of Orders

MANY UNDER CHARGES LAID BY GRAND JURY

Nineteen Indicted and Some are Reported to Have Left Town

NEW YORK.—Storms in speculative Wall Street which swept the brokerage firm of Kardos and Burke into bankruptcy Wednesday, hit four more houses Thursday. Involuntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in federal court against S. S. Ruskay & Company, liabilities estimated at $2,500,000 and assets at $1,500,000; J. W. Ball & Company, liabilities estimated at $150,000 and assets at $10,000; Rodney & Company, liabilities and assets not given. The New York curb market announced the suspension of Rasmussen & Company for alleged failure to meet its engagements.

Prosecutor Starts Probe

A steady stream of failures for the last month with reluctant heavy losses to customers throughout the United States and Canada, recently led District Attorney Stanton to start an investigation of alleged irregularities by brokers, the most common of which was alleged to be the bucketing of orders.

Of thirty odd firms that have gone into bankruptcy since the first of the year, twelve have been found by grand juries to have operated in a manner to warrant indictment of some of their members. Nineteen persons are under indictment and several of them are reported to have disappeared from the city. A usual indictment attached to the Kardos and Burke failure because of the fact that the junior member of the firm, John Burke, was treasurer of the United States under former President Wilson. He resigned that post in 1921 to go into business with Kardos, a 28-year-old broker who started in Wall Street eight years ago as a $10 a week messenger boy.

It is understood that the proposal will be brought up again late Friday at a meeting of all of the majority members of the ways and means committee.

GIRL KILLS MAN BEING TRIED FOR ATTACK UPON HER

"He'll Never Ruin Another Girl," She Declares After Sensational Shooting in Court

WACO, Texas.—Miss Marlene Matthews, 17 years old, shot and instantly killed J. C. Crossin Friday during proceedings in the district court here. He was charged with criminally attacking the girl two years ago.

Crossin was tried, convicted and sentenced to nine years in the penitentiary but the case was reversed on an error in the admission of testimony and he was remanded for trial. The proceedings had been completed and Miss Matthews had been called to the witness stand.

"He disgraced me, ruined my health and deprived me of school privileges," she stated after the killing. "But he will never ruin another girl."

Crossin was 59 years old. Miss Matthews walked to the witness chair, then turned, fired straight at Crossin, who sat in a chair fifteen feet away. She then stepped forward and fired again. Advancing to within three feet of the man, who had collapsed, she shot a third time.

TREATY RESERVATION ACCEPTABLE TO THE PRESIDENT IS CLAIM

Modified Blanket Reservation to Pacific Pact Under Discussion in Committee

PACT WILL BE VOTED ON BY THE SENATE ON SATURDAY

Reservation Relieves U. S. of Obligation to Go to War

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A modified blanket reservation to four-power Pacific pact said to be satisfactory both to President Harding and to a majority of the members of the senate foreign relations committee, was debated by the committee Friday and an agreement reached to vote on the treaty itself and all proposed reservations at Saturday's session.

The new reservation was laid before the committee by Senator Brandegee, republican, Connecticut, after a conference with President Harding. The Connecticut senator was said not to have represented it as embodying the president's views, but the understanding of committee members was that it would be acceptable to the White House.

"The text of the reservation follows: 'The United States understands that under the statement in the preamble or under the terms of this treaty there is no commitment to armed force, no alliance, no obligation to join in any defense.'"

Although apparently acceptable to most of the republican and democratic reservationists on the committee, the reservation, according to the discussion, will not receive unanimous committee approval. Senator Johnson, republican, California, was said to have shown opposition during the meeting, and it was generally expected that Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who was absent, would take a similar position.

REPARATIONS QUESTION TO BE BARRED FROM THE GENOA CONFERENCE--PARIS

KRIESE AND HIS BARTENDER GIVEN JAIL SENTENCES

Five Months in the County Jail is Penalty for Liquor Law Violations

APPEAL WILL BE TAKEN ON GROUND OF TRIAL MISTAKES

Judge Fowler Says Case Warrants Severe Sentences

Carl H. Kriese, saloonkeeper at Eighth and Market streets, and his bartender, Peter Toma, were sentenced to five months each in the county jail late Thursday afternoon by Judge J. A. Fowler in circuit court. Kriese was found guilty of having liquor in his possession at the saloon and Toma was found guilty of destroying liquid evidence as deputy state prohibition commissioners entered the saloon to inspect the place. The court denied the plea of F. H. Hartwell, attorney for Kriese and Toma, for a stay of sentence, pending an appeal in the case of Toma and an application for a new trial for Kriese. Hartwell will now seek a writ from the state supreme court. In the meantime Kriese and Toma will have to remain in the county jail. They began serving their sentences Thursday night. "They were not given an option of paying fines, instead a straight jail sentence being imposed."

Mr. Hartwell will seek a new trial for Kriese on the grounds of irregularities at the trial. After the jury had retired to consider the case, word was sent to the bailiffs that they desired to see the exhibit in the case. The bottle partly filled with water and alcohol which had been recovered from the rinsing sink by the prohibition officers and which was on exhibit at the trial of both Toma and Kriese was sent to the jury room. The jury reached a verdict in about a half hour and returned to the court room. Miss Bernha Ulicksch, the foreman, leading the march, holding the verdict in one hand and the bottle of liquor and water in the other. The court and lawyers were nonplussed at the sight that greeted their eyes as the jury entered the court room, the court censuring the bailiffs for permitting the jury to have the liquid exhibit.

Second Search Made

In appealing the case of Toma, Mr. Hartwell will raise the question of the right of the prohibition officers to confiscate liquor in a saloon when merely making an inspection, and when they are not provided with a search warrant. However, on Wednesday federal prohibition officers obtained a search warrant and went to the Kriese saloon. The place was locked up as the proprietor and his bartender were in court. The officers waited at the saloon until Kriese returned from court when they searched the place, finding two half pint bottles of alcohol, concealed in a section of auto tire and under a clear box lid.

A plea for clemency for Kriese was made by Mr. Hartwell, the court being informed that Kriese intended to discontinue the sale of soft drinks.

"It is a bit late to announce that you are going to quit the saloon business," said the court. "This inspection was made last September and I have information that liquor was found in the place again while Kriese was on trial for the first offense."

"Your honor, Kriese isn't on trial for that," said Mr. Hartwell.

"I know he isn't but it's six of one and half a dozen of the other," replied the judge. "In Pond du Lac three saloonkeepers were arraigned before me for liquor law violations. They quit the business after they had been arrested and have remained out of the business. I can't conceive of any more outrageous violation of the laws than in these cases. It was admitted outright at the time of the inspection by the prohibition officers that liquor was sold in the place, that Kriese couldn't make a living unless he did. The extreme penalty should be imposed. These men didn't take the law seriously."

LLOYD GEORGE AND POINCARE REPORTED AGREED ON LIMITS

Existing Treaties, Reparations and League Functions Not to be Taken up?

FRANCE WOULD ALSO ASK RUSSIAN PLEDGE

Wants Agreement Against Recognition of Soviets

PARIS.—When M. Poincare, the French premier, and Lloyd George, British premier, meet next Saturday, they will discuss six questions, all of them having bearing on the Genoa economic conference. This was learned in official quarters in Paris Thursday. The meeting will take place either at Boulogne or Calais. These questions will embrace, first, the contention that the Genoa conference must not touch upon nor alter existing treaties; second, that the reparations question shall not be discussed, and third, that no decision must be taken affecting the present functions of the league of nations, either by adding to or detracting from them.

Say Plan is Agreed On

Official circles here feel that Great Britain and France have agreed in principle upon these three points and the Temps says this evening that it only remains "to put these decisions down in writing and publish them."

The French premier intends also to bring up three other questions, the first of them an amendment of Article 1 of the Cannes resolution which forbids a nation to interfere in the internal affairs of another state. The amendment would make an exception in the case of countries formerly under Hapsburg or Hohenzollern rule attempting to restore either of these dynasties.

Want Russian Pledge

The second question will provide that recognition of the Soviet government shall not be granted until Russia not only has promised, but has carried out reforms necessary to safeguard foreigners and for the restitution of their property. The third point will be that no discrimination shall be made by the soviet against foreigners having bonafide claims against Russia and that holders of Russian bonds must be treated in a similar manner to foreigners owning property in Russia.

New French Loan

PARIS.—The French government has authorized the Credit National to float a new loan of eight billion francs to meet the expenses of the extraordinary budget of 1922 for reconstruction, pensions and costs of the army of occupation.

Finance Minister De Lasteyrie told the chamber of deputies that according to the terms of the treaty of Versailles those expenditures should be paid by Germany. New issues of treasury bonds bearing six per cent also were necessary to balance the extraordinary budget.

The minister of finance added: "I recognize that this loan policy is deplorable, but amid the difficulties in which we find ourselves it is the only solution except that of coercing Germany into paying what she owes us and thus fulfill her undertakings to comply with the treaty of Versailles."

The total amount involved chargeable to Germany under the treaty is 21,500,000,000 francs. The chamber, without a record vote, ultimately adopted these extraordinary budget figures.

ERSKINE DALE PIONEER

by JOHN FOX, Jr.

©1924 BY

Grey gave way, step by step—parrying only. The blades flashed like the bits of lightning. Erskine's face grimed and inexorably brought the sick grin back into Grey's, and Erskine saw his enemy's lips open.
He lunged then, his blade went true, sank to the hilt, and Grey's warped soul started on its way with a cry that died in his throat. Erskine sprang back into the shadows, and snatched his pistol from Ephraim's hand.
"Get out of the way now. Tell them I did it!"
Once he looked back. He saw Barbara at the hall door with old Mattie behind her. With a running leap he vaulted the hedge, and hidden in the bushes, Ephraim heard Erskine's hoofs beating over more faintly the sandy road.
XXIII
Yorktown broke the British heart and General Dale went home to Red Oaks. He had pieced out the full story of Barbara and Erskine and Dan Grey, and wisely he told her first of Grey's dark treachery, and the girl listened in horrified silence.
"I have never understood about myself and—that man," she said. "And I never will."
"I do," said the general, gently, "and I understand you through my sister who was so like you. Erskine's father was as indignant as Harry is now, and I am trying to get toward you as my father did toward her." The girl pressed her lips to one of his hands.
"I think I'd better tell you the whole story now," said General Dale, and he told of Erskine's father, his wildness and his wanderings, his marriage and the capture of his wife and little son by the Indians, all of which she knew and the girl wondered why he should be telling her again. The general paused.
"You know, Erskine's mother was not killed. He found her." The girl looked up amazed and incredulous.
"Yes," he went on, the white woman whom he found in the Indian village was his mother.
"Father?" She lifted her head quickly, leaned back with hands caught tight in front of her, looked up into his face—her own crimsoning and paling as she took in the full meaning of it all. Her eyes dropped.
"Then," she said slowly, "that Indian girl—Early Morn—is his half sister. Oh, oh!" A great pity flooded her heart and eyes. "Why didn't she finished with her face in her hands. "God pity me," she whispered. "I drove him from his own home."

"No," said the old general with a gentle smile, "he was driving the burb deep, but sooner or later it had to be done."
"Look here!" He pulled an old piece of paper from his pocket and handed it to her. Her wide eyes fell upon a rude boyish scrawl and a rude drawing of a buffalo pierced by an arrow.
"It make me laugh. I have no use, I give hole dam plantation Barbara!"
"Oh!" gasped the girl and then—
"Where is he?"
"Waiting at Williamsburg to get his discharge."
She rushed swiftly down the steps, calling:
"Ephraim! Ephraim!"
And ten minutes later the happy, grinning Ephraim, mounted on the throughbred was speeding ahead of a whirlwind of dust, with a little scented note in his battered slouch hat.
"You said you would come whenever I wanted you. I want you to come now—BARBARA."
The girl would not go to bed and the old general from his window saw her like some white spirit of the night motionless on the porch. And there through the long hours she sat. The dawn came and with it Ephraim. The girl waited where she was. Ephraim took off his battered hat.
"Marse Erskine done gone, Miss Barbara," he said brokenly. "He done gone two days."
"The girl said nothing and there the old general found her still motionless—the torn bits of her note and the torn bits of Erskine's scrawling deed scattered about her feet.
XXIV
On the summit of Cumberland Gap Erskine Dale faced fire east and looked his last on the forests that swept unbroken back to the river James.
That winter he made his clearing on the land that Dave Yandell had picked out for him and in the center of it threw up a rude log hut in which to house his mother, for his remembrance of her made him believe that she would prefer to live alone.
In the early spring, when he brought his mother home, she said that Black Wolf had escaped and gone farther into the wilderness—that Early Morn had gone with him.

Erskine, not knowing that Barbara was on her way to find him, started on a hunting trip. In a few days Barbara arrived and found his mother unable to leave her bed, and Lydia Noe sitting beside her.
Barbara was dismayed by Erskine's absence and his mother's look of suffering and extreme weakness, and the touch of her cold fingers.
There was no way of reaching her son, she said—he did not know of her illness. Barbara told her of Erskine's giving her his inheritance and that she had come to return it.
Meanwhile Erskine, haunted by his mother's sad face, had turned homeward. To his bewilderment he found Barbara sitting at his mother's bedside. A glance at their faces told him that death was near.
His mother held out her hand to him while still holding Barbara's. As in a dream he bent over to kiss her, and with a last effort she joined their hands, clasping both.
A great peace transformed her face, as she slowly looked at Barbara and then up at Erskine. With a sigh her head sank lower, and her lovely dimming eyes passed into the final dark.
Two days later they were married.
In the silence that fell, Erskine spoke of the life before them, of its hardships and dangers and then of the safety and comfort of Virginia. Barbara smiled.
"You choose the wilderness, and your choice is mine. We will leave the same choice—!" She flushed suddenly and bent her head.

"Those who come after us," finished Erskine.
THE END
WOMEN AND "ILL-LUCK"
The ill-luck women are supposed to bring under certain circumstances is noted by Mr. Charles T. Gorham. Men who worked in the Cornish mines used to believe that if the first person they met in the morning was a woman it was very unlucky. They believe this so implicitly that they would afterwards refuse to go into the mines. It was also considered unlucky for women to "let the New Year in." A woman who read the marriage service through in its entirety before her marriage was said to be fated to spinsterhood, but Mr. Gorham suggests that one could scarcely believe this, inasmuch as all women who could read had probably read the whole service through, and many of them had no doubt afterwards married happily.

LITTLE RETURN ASKED FOR
In the four years 1916-1920 50,488,507 acres of forested area were burned. This is more than two and a half times the area Germany lost by the war. A very large number of these fires are directly due to the thoughtlessness of tourists; a discarded cigarette stub, a campfire not properly extinguished, and acres of valuable timber that has taken generations to reach its splendid maturity are swept down in flames. The forest service wants the public to enjoy the forests; it builds fire roads and sets up free camping grounds for them. Is it too much to expect that in return they will be more careful with their cigarettes, and see that their campfires are thoroughly extinguished.

Medical men all agree that in a great number of cases it would be of valuable assistance to them if patients could produce a weight record when going for advice. Often it

There was no way of reaching her son, she said—he did not know of her illness. Barbara told her of Erskine's giving her his inheritance and that she had come to return it.
Meanwhile Erskine, haunted by his mother's sad face, had turned homeward. To his bewilderment he found Barbara sitting at his mother's bedside. A glance at their faces told him that death was near.
His mother held out her hand to him while still holding Barbara's. As in a dream he bent over to kiss her, and with a last effort she joined their hands, clasping both.
A great peace transformed her face, as she slowly looked at Barbara and then up at Erskine. With a sigh her head sank lower, and her lovely dimming eyes passed into the final dark.
Two days later they were married.
In the silence that fell, Erskine spoke of the life before them, of its hardships and dangers and then of the safety and comfort of Virginia. Barbara smiled.
"You choose the wilderness, and your choice is mine. We will leave the same choice—!" She flushed suddenly and bent her head.

"Those who come after us," finished Erskine.
THE END
WOMEN AND "ILL-LUCK"
The ill-luck women are supposed to bring under certain circumstances is noted by Mr. Charles T. Gorham. Men who worked in the Cornish mines used to believe that if the first person they met in the morning was a woman it was very unlucky. They believe this so implicitly that they would afterwards refuse to go into the mines. It was also considered unlucky for women to "let the New Year in." A woman who read the marriage service through in its entirety before her marriage was said to be fated to spinsterhood, but Mr. Gorham suggests that one could scarcely believe this, inasmuch as all women who could read had probably read the whole service through, and many of them had no doubt afterwards married happily.

LITTLE RETURN ASKED FOR
In the four years 1916-1920 50,488,507 acres of forested area were burned. This is more than two and a half times the area Germany lost by the war. A very large number of these fires are directly due to the thoughtlessness of tourists; a discarded cigarette stub, a campfire not properly extinguished, and acres of valuable timber that has taken generations to reach its splendid maturity are swept down in flames. The forest service wants the public to enjoy the forests; it builds fire roads and sets up free camping grounds for them. Is it too much to expect that in return they will be more careful with their cigarettes, and see that their campfires are thoroughly extinguished.

Watch Your Weight
Medical men all agree that in a great number of cases it would be of valuable assistance to them if patients could produce a weight record when going for advice. Often it is impossible for a diagnosis to be given until a patient has tested his or her weight for a certain length of time.

GUARD YOUR THOUGHTS

The Union Station Again

ON one of his flying trips to La Crosse Mayor Bentley has seen fit to resume the fight against the union station. His opposition takes the form of attempting to interfere again with the action commenced before the railroad commission by the committee of civic organizations this time to move dismissal of the case. Authority for the action will be sought from the city council, which has been on the whole more often against the union station than for it, especially when the mayor was around to crack the whip. And no doubt he will get his authority, for what it amounts to, because one presumes that in a matter so close to his heart as the slaughter of the union station the mayor will make time to be home for the night of the meeting, at least. But having the authority it is not clear that the case will therefore be dismissed. One can imagine the commission saying to itself "Here, asking for a certain action, are a dozen or so politicians. Here, asking for exactly the opposite, are the people they are supposed to represent." One can imagine the commission being bewildered, but it is harder to imagine it dismissing the case on such a showing. Officials who claim to speak the mind of a community are rather absurd when what they have to say is merely contradiction of what the community itself has overwhelmingly expressed. It is fortunate at this juncture, perhaps, that the city council has no more standing before the railroad commission in the union station matter than the citizens' committee—and probably, by virtue of the preponderance of numbers on the committee, not as much.

Washington

PEOPLE have read a great deal about George Washington in the last few days. His achievements, his personality, his writings have been reviewed in many ways. But few writers remarked that Washington was a physical giant, standing six feet two inches, and of athletic build. That his hair was a reddish brown, his eyes blue, and his hands large may not be very important, but that he had great physical strength and endurance is historically important, for without his strong and healthy body Washington could not have stood the hardships he went through as commander-in-chief of the armies that won America's independence.

Born of planter parents considered wealthy in those days, and inheriting a landed estate, Washington was no idler. He fought his way into history by hard work. He was only sixteen years old when he headed westward into the wilderness as a surveyor. He served as surveyor for three years. The pay was small. But George was economical, saving enough from his wages to buy large tracts of land before he was of age. At maturity, his reputation was established as a thrifty, reliable hard worker, intensely democratic, of simple tastes, a "square deal" man. The virile pioneers accepted him naturally as their logical leader. A leading character of critical times, Washington was serious-minded from youth. He knew the bitter hardships of winter in the unexplored wilderness, Indian fighting, and the starvation and cold of Valley Forge. Washington never admitted that defeat was possible. In the darkest days of the Revolution, it was largely his inspiring courage that kept hope alive in his famished soldiers.

In his day Washington was a radical in the best sense. He went to the root of things. That is one reason why British rule was uprooted. He favored the constitution, the adoption of which met very much the same sort of resistance that was opposed to the League of Nations, and that is now opposed to the arms conference treaties. He was not afraid of changes when the times were ripe for change. Those who say today that he would not have changed in upwards of 100 years, and that he would stand against the peace treaties and for the old "isolation" neither understand nor comprehend him. He would not have insisted that because a foreign policy was good for one century it must be good for all the centuries. Read his letters on the constitution. He belonged to the group who wanted to adopt it first, and amend it afterward. That is what men of his mind want to do today. They want to meet new conditions with new policies and new programs. A nation with an isolation policy today is like a farmer plowing with a crooked stick. Washington fought the Revolutionary war with flintlock muskets, but had been a general in the World war he would not have fought with flintlocks—he would have used tanks and aeroplanes.

February 22 was the 190th anniversary of his birth. It is good to know that the father of our country was a regular fellow—virile, likable, an ideal American. In his life, many lessons for the young. Also, much inspiration for those emerged from youth. One lesson would have been to keep up with the times.

Sticks to His Furrow

JUDGE A. H. LONG is reported to have taken the College of Agriculture of the University to task for not having devoted itself to investigation of the causes back of farm conditions and available remedies. Possibly Judge Long has not kept track of authoritative utterances coming from the university, because they have not been uttered in political gatherings. For his information we suggest that he write Dean H. L. Russell, of the College of Agriculture, for a copy of the notable address which the latter has been delivering where he has believed it would do the most good. There is a lot of meat in it which Judge Long might be glad to absorb and pass on for the benefit of the farm industry. Or perhaps it is a bit too candid for political gatherings. However, the farmer with the plow seems to like it.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Persistent rumors are being circulated today that the State Bank is planning to move its offices from the present location on Third and Main to the west corner of the McMillan building.

Adam Webber, 704 South Fourth street, father of Chief of Police John B. Webber, died at his home Wednesday of pneumonia after a short illness. Mr. Webber was born in Germany in 1842. He came to La Crosse county in 1860 and settled on a farm in Dutch Creek. He moved to the city in 1881 and has lived here ever since. Mr. Webber was a carpenter by trade.

A. Quackenbush has purchased the Wachter estate on Mill street.

The La Crosse Normal school will be greatly benefited by the action of the board of normal regents who met in Madison yesterday. In order to fully equip the institution so as to give the full two years of college work six new teachers will be added to the faculty. A physical instructor for the male students is one of the most welcome provisions made. There are to be assistants in the biology, history and education departments also.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The crack La Crosse howlers proved themselves to be champions last evening when they defeated the "Get the Wood" howling team of Milwaukee on the alleys of the La Crosse club by 352 points in a five game contest.

A number of the old La Crosse baseball stars assembled at the residence of Joseph Poehling last night and organized what they declare will be the banner baseball club of La Crosse for the coming season. The name "La Crosse Laurels" was chosen for the team.

The Elliott-Loeffler company has bought the John McGovern property on North Third street. It consists of a lot and saloon building.

William E. Kiltredge, who was master car builder for the Milwaukee road when it established its shops in La Crosse, died yesterday at his home in Milwaukee. Patents have been granted to the Listman Milling company of La Crosse for two trade marks on its flour.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Chief of the Fire Department C. A. Hunt paid a visit to Fire Station No. 2 yesterday afternoon in company with Mr. Hull of the firm of Hull and Thompson of Chicago. Mr. Hull took the measurements for the wire baskets which are to be placed on the hook and ladder trucks to hold the clothing of the firemen. These baskets were recommended by the fire committee and the council consented to their purchase.

The city has taken over the work of clearing up the street crossings which are just now buried in mud and water.

James A. Trape has purchased W. P. Powers' Plumbing and Gas Fitting establishment.

P. U. Toland of Ottumwa, Iowa, is in La Crosse. He is a commercial college man of distinction and talks of locating here. Being successful in his line he would bring to La Crosse an army of students and would prove a valuable acquisition to the town.

Accidents Will Happen

BY FREDERICK HART

When Ethel Dorrance opened her eyes the first thing of which she became conscious was a pair of gray eyes very close to her own, and a handsome face on which anxiety and relief struggled for mastery.

She was vaguely conscious that all her body was one ache, that when she tried to move her right arm it refused to obey the behest of her will; and that something—her hat, probably—was twisted around her neck awkwardly and prodding with a sharp wire into her shoulder.

Dimly she remembered what had happened; how she had taken the touring car and started downtown to meet her father at his office; how she had swerved to avoid running down a street urchin who had sprung from nowhere directly in front of her car; how there had been a clanging of gongs and a grinding of brakes in her car, and a looming vision of the menacing front of a heavy street car over her very head; then darkness and void, till the aching return of consciousness and the knowledge of the eyes near her and of a strong arm supporting her shoulders.

"Weakly she tried to raise herself to a sitting position, but the pain made her sink back again with a groan. A voice, belonging to the man who owned the gray eyes, spoke:

"Don't move—you're all right—they'll be here in a minute."

Who were "they"? she wondered. Then she thought again of the urchin who had been the cause of her accident. "How is—how is the little boy?" she asked.

"He's all right—got off with a bad scare. You saved his life, and risked your own to do it. Ah, here it is."

"It proved to be an ambulance, which drew up with much ringing of bell and chugging of motor. The crowd parted, and a young internist assisted the man with the gray eyes to place Ethel in the car. She made a last effort:

"Tell my father—J. W. Dorrance—tell him I'm all right," she said, and then the cool white walls of the ambulance wavered queerly, and there was a confused buzzing in her ears and she sank down, down, through limitless space till she reached a place where there was darkness and silence and blessed relief from pain.

When she came to herself she was lying in her room at home. Beside the bed she made out two faces, one of a white-capped nurse, and the other the anxious countenance of her father. As she opened her eyes she heard him say, "Thank God! and felt him take her hand. She held his fingers in a convulsive grip.

"Am I—and I all right?" she whispered.

"Yes, thanks to the man who picked you up. You gave us an awful fright, little girl, but you're all right now." Her father's voice was cheery and his eyes met those of the nurse with a smile.

"Who was 'it'?" he asked.

"I don't know. He disappeared after the accident. But the doctor at the hospital said that if it had not been for his first aid you might have been killed. He did not complete the sentence. "See—here's the only clew we have to his identity." He held up a handkerchief. "He twisted this into a tourniquet on your arm and stopped the bleeding where the glass from the windshield had cut you. The handkerchief is marked 'L. T.' That's all we know."

"Perhaps—perhaps, he'll come to claim it," she said with a faint smile. Then, for she was still weak, the nurse forbade further talk, and gave her something that tasted bitter, but which sent her into a deep slumber from which she woke refreshed.

Two weeks later, when she could sit up and felt able to receive her friends, many of whom called to congratulate her on her speedy recovery, her father entered the room with a twinkle in his eye.

"Ethel, my dear, I have a surprise for you," he said. "Some one is going to call on you in half an hour—some one you don't know yet, but whom you will before long." With these words he was gone, nor could all her coaxing call him back.

Promptly at the set time there was a knock at her door. To her call her father replied and entered, ushering in a stranger—a stranger with gray eyes.

"Ethel," began her father. "This is the young man to whom we owe your life. May I present Mr. Harris—my daughter, Mr. Harris. I want her to tell you herself how grateful we all are for your prompt aid. And

ONE REEL YARNS

A CANDLELIGHT PARTY

The Fulton family had drifted nervously into the living room, as the storm grew steadily worse. Lida, who had been painting up in her own room, had come down at the first crash of thunder. Ralph, who had been intending to go to the movies, but had been held back by the threatening storm, reappeared about restlessly. Mr. Fulton was reading commercial news, and Mrs. Fulton was fixing over a dress for Lida.

"Oh, I think that dreadful lightning will strike here any minute," shuddered Lida. She had hardly finished speaking when there was a blinding flash which brought them all to their feet. It was followed by complete darkness. The electric lights had gone out.

Lida began to cry a little, as she groped her way toward her mother. "Here!" "Here!" said her father, heartily. "I'll be all right in just a minute. Steady there. Haven't we a lamp or something around here?"

"Not a lamp," came Mrs. Fulton's voice out of the darkness, "but there are some candles on the lowest shelf in the pantry. I bought them some time there was something the matter with the light in the furnace room. You'll get them."

"Never mind," called Ralph, cheerily. "I think I can find them."

"He was back in a few minutes, carrying a lighted candle in each hand, having stuck them in a couple of saucers. He set them down on the table, around which the family gathered thankfully.

"It was too dark to read by the flickering light or to work, either. Lida sat down on the floor with her head in her mother's lap, and Ralph pulled up a footstool. "Tell us a story, Mother, like you used to do when Lida and I were just little kids. Won't you?"

"Please do," begged Lida, and even Mr. Fulton joined their coaxing.

So their mother told them a story, and then followed with another. They forgot the storm, as they drew cozily together, and were surprised when the lights suddenly flashed on again.

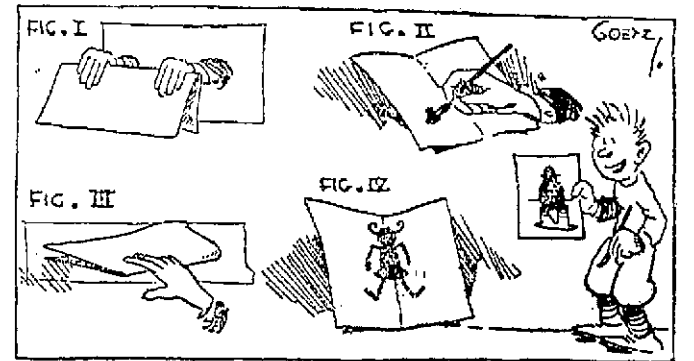

"This has been so nice, Mummy," said Lida. "I'm glad the lights went out. We're so busy we don't get together much."

"I don't mind missing the movie a bit," said Ralph.

Father Fulton reached over and patted Mother Fulton on the shoulder. "I for one," he said, "vote for a candlelight party every week."

"Oh, dear," sighed Alice, who was making a map for next day's geography lesson. "I shall some day be a painter, mixing right onto a clean sheet of paper."

"Hold it across and make a splash picture," suggested Eleanor, who was studying at the other end of the table.

"What do you mean?" asked Alice.

"See, like this," said Eleanor, coming over beside Alice. "That blot spread too much now. I'll fix another one. Just watch." She picked up a clean sheet of scratch paper and folded it across (fig. 1). Then she took the brush, dipped it in the paint, and dabbed the color on one side of the fold, having opened the paper out (fig. 2). She quickly folded the paper again, pressing on the blot (fig. 3). Then, while Alice looked on wondering, she unfolded the paper, showing a long, fantastic deer which had been formed by the spreading of the paint.

"It looks sort of like a butterfly," said Alice.

"Do you have to use any special paper?" Alice asked.

"Well, any sort of paper with a fairly soft surface will do. And remember you can put the color on only one side of the crease, in order to work it right."

Alice picked up another sheet of paper, and under Eleanor's direction, made a figure that looked like a queer little man. They both laughed as they decided on a name for their "portrait."

"Gracious!" said Alice. "This has been so much fun I've forgotten all about my map. I'll have to mix the colors again. When I get this finished we'll have to have a 'painting party' and see how many different pictures we can make."

TO-DAY'S PUZZLE

The following is a pined quotation:
"Lat erkr nra, on larp kema ckja a lura."
Answer to yesterday's: Show, thou, boot, fle, Diagonals spell "shoe."

Loaders, sleepers.
Flunkers, weepers.

by the way, she has something of yours which you may want." And the good man chuckled to himself as he left the room.

Two hours later Harris took his departure. Ethel called her father to her.

"Daddy, I think he's splendid. How did you find who he was?"

"Well, it was a curious coincidence. Old man Morton, of the big firm of lawyers, wrote in to ask how you were—he's an old friend of mine, you know—and said this young man who was a new member of the firm and a very clever one, had been there and picked you up. It seems that after you left he went to his office to find out who I was, and told the whole story to Morton, swearing him to secrecy. But Morton thought that he was foolish not to let us thank him so he spilled the beans, and I got hold of young Mr. Harris for lunch and made him promise to come up here. What do you think of him?"

"Daddy, I think he's just as nice as he can be!"

"And did you return his handkerchief?"

A little blush ran across Ethel's face.

"Well, he didn't ask for it and I thought—I thought I'd like to keep it as a souvenir of the occasion."

"Oh, well—I see." And Mr. Dorrance left the room laughing heartily, to the great indignation of his daughter.

But several months later, when the engagement of Ethel Dorrance to the rising young lawyer, John Harris, was announced, and the newspapers hinted at the romantic beginning of their courtship, Ethel made a confession to her father.

"Daddy, dear, he did ask for his handkerchief, and I told him that I wanted to keep it to remember him by. And daddy, now I can keep it always—and I'm so happy!"

And her father, remembering how that scrap of linen had stood between his daughter and death, agreed that it was quite proper that it should remain in the family.

"ROBBER" CLAIMS HE WAS PAID TO STAGE A HOLD-UP

Tells Police of Conspiracy to Collect Burglary Insurance

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—Alleging police said, that he was paid $1,000 by Mrs. Sarah Robertson to stage a "holdup" in her home at Deal last Saturday night, in which she claims to have been robbed of a handbag containing $50,000 in jewels, John Bailey was arrested here on a charge of conspiracy. Police authorities announced they were sending to Ashbury Park for a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Robertson.

The bag, supposed to contain the jewels, Bailey said, was in reality filled with white tissue paper and the "weapon" which Mrs. Robertson's dinner guests had described as a "pearl handled automatic pistol equipped with a silencer" was actually a pipe case. The bag and its contents, together with the pipe case, were turned over to the local police.

Bailey, who is the son of respectable parents, declared that he was approached last November by a man whose name he gave, who told him that Mrs. Robertson would give him $500 to take part in a fake holdup, ostensibly to aid in a scheme for collecting burglary insurance. He refused. A week ago Saturday, he told the police, the offer was renewed and the price increased to $1,000. He accepted and the fake holdup followed. He was held without bail pending an investigation.

SEVENTH GRADE OF WASHBURN SCHOOL WELL QUARTERED

On account of the destruction of the Longfellow school it became necessary to find quarters for the seventh grade of the Washburn school, which had been placed there pending the completion of the new Washburn school.

After several plans had been considered, it was decided to run double sessions in the sixth grade barracks, thus accommodating the extra grade. Mr. Greenwald, principal of the school, says that all work will be completed and with the splendid cooperation of the pupils and parents no difficulty is anticipated.

The sixth grade under Miss Byrne now begins the regular session at 8:15 and continues until 12:15. At 12:20 Miss Heydon takes possession of the room with her seventh grade and works until 4:15. It of course means more intensive work and possibly some more home study.

This plan is not new. It is employed in some of the largest cities where much school construction is going on and where rooms are overcrowded. Although conditions are not considered ideal, it was thought to be much superior to other plans that were suggested.

Let Your Children Learn On A Good Piano

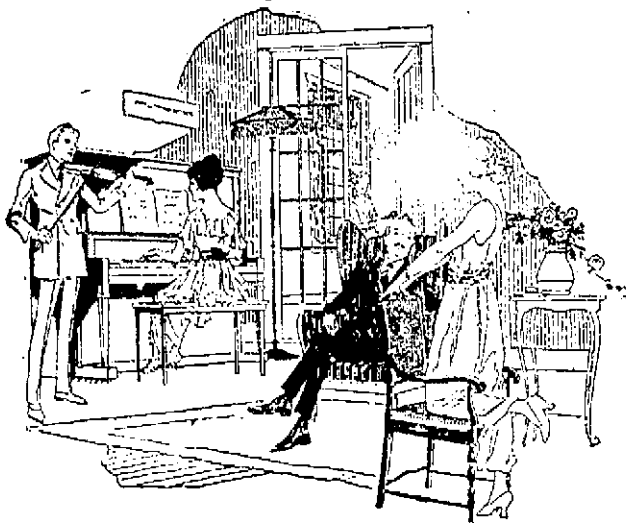

A POOR Piano has no musical quality of tone. This lack of tone quality is a serious menace to the "ear." Also in a poor Piano the action is hard and irregular, and the fingers and hands are improperly trained. Therefore, if you intend to have your children learn to play, provide them with a good Piano. It is a mistake to think that a cheap or poor Piano is good enough for them to "hang on"—their first impressions are lasting ones—start their training right—give them the best you can afford. Consider quality and not cheapness. A good, reliable dealer has good Pianos at moderate (not cheap) prices, and sells them on convenient terms.

STARVING RUSSIANS FORCED BY LACK OF FOOD TO EAT PETS

Famine Forces Many at Kazan to Resort to Cats and Dogs to Sustain Life

KAZAN ON THE VOLGA.—The famine in the Spassky canton of this province has caused some of the people to resort to the eating of cats, dogs and fowl of frozen or starved horses and cattle.

White yet the exception, the plight of the Hemidul family in the village of Tikhoboff shows what the winter may bring to the whole village. The father and head of the family died in the spring of starvation. Then his wife and two sons, 10 and 18 years old, took to the fields and ate the remains of starved cattle.

Then they killed and ate the house cat. As they found they could live on such food, they ate several dozens of cats in the village and, when this supply was exhausted, wandered away.

Their whereabouts are no longer known to the other villagers, who still have a few handfuls of acorns and potato bread.

The village council of Selo has applied to L. W. Warren, the American relief district superintendent, that Gregory Ivanoff feed his family on dog meat until his wife and two children died.

Cases are officially reported in which the people ate worst food than cats and dogs.

The population of this canton in 1920 was 238,606 persons. Now it is estimated at 184,115. The difference is accounted for by 20,000 deaths and 3,000 who fled. The entire crop is given at about 8,000,000 pounds or about one-tenth of a pound of bread per day for each person.

Black bread is 10,000 rubles a pound. The price of a pound of a mixture of acorns, bark, leaves and pines, used as bread, is one-third that of a pound of black bread. Five-week sales for 2,000 rubles a pound.

Many intestinal illnesses have been caused by eating such food, until it is estimated that 50 to 70 per cent of the population is suffering from scurvy, dropsy and general exhaustion. The people have sold off their personal and real estate in order to buy food.

THE ART OF COUNTING SHEEP

In Australia when a man makes a reputation as a sheep counter there is a more or less constant demand for his services. It is counted as an art to count sheep. The counting operation takes place yearly on every sheep and the counter must be thoroughly on his job. He must be accurate the first time for there is no opportunity of making a second count should the first fail. If it were a matter of counting a few animals the count could be made over again but in this case the flock often numbers eight thousand. They are counted as they are driven through a gate and to perform the operation a second time means that the animals must be rounded up all over. The counter who would require this would soon become unpopular.

THE CLOWN OF THE FIELDS

Both streets and weasels fascinate birds by playing on their curiosity. A flock of partridges is feeding in a field. Suddenly a slim brown hearse shows itself some distance away, and begins to go through extraordinary antics. It rolls over on its back, jumps, and in fact, procures a regular circus show.

Though the birds know the danger, they cannot take their eyes off the entertainer. Presently he disappears, and they move forward to see what has become of him. He bows up once more—much nearer now—and the show begins all over again. At length when he is close enough to his quarry, he makes a lightning bound; the covey flies away one short, and the entertainer claps.

Cowboy For Forty Years
Ninety years old, Andrew Herben, is still engaged in rounding up sheep in the country around Okanogan, Washington, which he has been doing in one place or another for forty years past. He says what keeps him young is the experience of having a thrill of some kind every day. The thrill he gets now-a-days come from fighting cougars and other varmints which get after the sheep.

CHURCH SOCIETIES HEAR TALKS ON VALUE OF MILK

YESTERDAY afternoon was a busy one for the speakers on the coming milk week campaign. Miss Katherine Martindale spoke to a very responsive audience, the Industrial Society of the First Baptist church. These present were interested in the way in which the speaker brought out the increased value of vegetables, cereals and deserts by the addition of milk, cheese and butter, the dairy products.

Mrs. J. F. H. Schultz, who before her marriage was the home economic teacher in the public schools of Topeka, spoke before the Woman's guild of Christ church.

At this meeting pamphlets on "Milk Necessary for the Nation's Welfare" were given out.

At St. Paul's Lutheran church ladies' Aid, Mrs. Holly, head of the home economic department of the public schools, spoke on milk and milk products and their relation to a healthy family.

Mrs. Holly brought out that while milk contains mineral, protein sugar and fat, it is also a source of energy. In closing Mrs. Holly told how skimmed milk is milk with the cream taken out, but that it contained all the other food stuffs and how valuable skimmed milk is in cooking.

THE BOARD of directors of the Y. W. C. A. will meet for a one o'clock luncheon on next Wednesday. Following the luncheon the regular monthly meeting will be held.

MRS. J. BERGHOLZ, 1128 1/2 Ave. street, was surprised by her sewing circle in celebration of her birthday. A toast was given by Mrs. Henry Otto and several solos were played by Raymond Bergholz and son, Eugene. Luncheon was served by Mesdames P. French, M. Neuman, P. Tassie. Those present were Mesdames P. French, M. Otto, H. Klinger, E. Nollmeyer, J. Bergholz, P. Tassie, R. McCoy, E. Maule, P. French, M. Neuman and Raymond and Eugene Bergholz.

THE Y. P. S. C. of the Bethel Lutheran church will meet Friday evening in the church parlors, with Knute Myklebust and Harry Christensen as guests. All are cordially invited.

MRS. J. SHACKLEY has returned to her home in Milwaukee after a two months' visit with her daughters, Mrs. J. H. Furber and Mrs. J. P. Brudlos.

Miss Doris Gilman, who has had training under Miss Leonard Thompson and at the Pavley-Oukradski studio in Chicago has taken over the classes in aesthetic and classical dancing formerly conducted by Miss Winifred Rothman, and has succeeded in securing the Chamber of Commerce as her studio. In addition to her past practical experience Miss Gilman will further perfect herself as an instructor by attending all the classes at the Pavley-Oukradski school which are personally conducted by these great masters. Professional experience will be assured all pupils attaining a sufficient degree of perfection in their work as Miss Gilman has just completed negotiations whereby she has become affiliated with a theatrical booking organization which will present her capable talent in some of the better theaters in this part of the country.

Used the Wrong Word
There was a curious case in Michigan where a wealthy decedent left $50,000 to build a home for indigent old women. But instead of indigent, the maker of the will wrote "indignant." As it would have been possible to find a great many indignant old ladies and hard to decide between their claims, the money finally went to relatives.

GOSSIPING IS INSANITY

A Chicago police officer states that the neighborhood gossip and the anonymous letter writer have one of the nastiest, lowest and most vicious forms of insanity known to medical circles. Their distorted imagination visualizes scenes which they would come true, and their insane mind immediately grasps the story and they repeat it as if it were true.

Gossip and anonymous letters, says the New York Medical Journal, are a constant pest at police headquarters, but reports registered with police officers in an attempt to injure character by these means or false telephone reports are a failure; in fact, the police take more pleasure in tracking the informer than the informed about.

Who Started Life Insurance
Life insurance is an outgrowth of custom of insuring ships and cargoes, practiced by the owners from olden times. They would insure against the loss of the ship through the death of her skipper. These policies were issued by individuals before companies came into existence. The first recorded life policy was issued in London in 1583, on the life of William Gybbons, for 12 months. It was underwritten by 13 individuals, the premium being $50 per $500.

PRINCIPALS IN "KIDNAPING"

Mrs. Mary Robbins filed a complaint charging kidnapping against a nurse who took her 3-year-old son, George Robbins 3rd, away from their Chicago home and started with him for Mrs. Robbins' divorced husband on the coast. Police took the nurse and the child off the train at Ogden, Utah.

After an appeal to the courts, Mrs. Robbins withdrew the charge and the nurse was ordered released. A Chicago judge ordered Robbins, son of George Robbins, long a vice president of Armour and Co., before him to explain alimony payments. This shows George Robbins 3rd and his mother.

Russian Men too Wish-Washy Woman Tells Correspondent

SUIZAN ON THE VOLGA.—If Russia ever amounts to anything it will be through the organization of her women which has not yet taken place, declared a sprightly, merry little woman to the correspondent on the through train from Tashkent in Turkistan, to Moscow. Before the revolution she had borne the title of princess.

"I hate Russian men," she went on. "They are wishy-washy. They have given us a land made of ritchera (it doesn't matter) after (tomorrow) in nichayayn. (I don't know, and avos (perhaps)."

She had been to Tashkent to speculate in gold. Everybody had to do something to live nowadays.

She was the wife of a Mussulman, once owning thousands of acres of land with an income of $100,000 a year.

She had warned him to get out of Russia, three years ago, sell his lands, but he was obstinate and now he was wandering she knew not where, both he and she were separated from their children and she had nearly died in a soviet prison.

Machines Increase Wages
In the United States, as compared with Great Britain, our nearest competitor, production per man is 2.6 times as great, the output per man is twice as great, and wages correspondingly higher. The cause is found in the fact that we use three times the mechanical horsepower per worker than England does.

The next place was the quarters of James Murray, over the Monsoon pool room, on North Third street, near Vine. Several bottles of alcohol were taken. MINNESOTA RURAL MAIL CARRIER IS VICTIM OF STORM

MANFATO, Minn.—Edward H. Davies of Lake Crystal, fifty-nine years old, and a rural mail carrier of that city for the past twelve years, is the first victim in southern Minnesota of the storm which has gripped the entire northwest for the past two days. While digging through a snowdrift on his route Thursday afternoon at three o'clock he over-exerted himself and died of heart trouble. He is survived by his wife and two brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Rev. John Davies of Chicago and Rev. Peter Davies of Lincoln, Neb. The sisters are Mrs. Ben T. Evans of Wadena, Minn., and Mrs. B. D. Hughes of Canby, Minn. The blizzard had apparently abated Friday after doing thousands of dollars worth of damage to telephone and telegraph lines in southern Minnesota. Long distance telephone lines are still crippled.

"Oh, Miss Sophy," she moaned, "my uncle he is dead, and I've come to mourn for him four months." The lady expressed sympathy and added: "I had out that red skirt of mine for you. I thought you might like it; but of course you won't want it now." "No, Miss Sophy; I've come to mourn four whole months." Next week brought Caroline as usual. "I been thinkin' 'bout that red skirt, Miss Sophy," she said, "it's just the kind of a red skirt I like, and believe from now on I'll mourn from the waist up."—Everybody's Magazine.

Somewhere beneath the wreckage of that and two other engines the body of his master lies. Riding with his master when the engines locked in their death clasp, the dog escaped injury, and the first rescuers found him atop the wrecked cab that had housed his master. He was chased away repeatedly; even taken back toward town, but once released, he streaked his way back to stand silent sentinel as the search went on for the body of his master.

D.—Meagre reports from scattered precincts in North Dakota where scheduled Nonpartisan league caucuses were held Wednesday despite a raging blizzard, "give no hope for the balance of power plan" according to an announcement at league headquarters here. In each instance where a report of the precinct meeting has been received "the plan was set down on head" it was stated.

Instead of endorsing the "balance of power" plan, which provided that the league should refrain from naming tickets for the primary, the precincts reported went on record for more "direct action" in politics than ever before. It was announced. Hereafter it has invariably been the rule of the league to stay out of county politics but some precincts went on record yesterday as favoring not only congressional and state tickets but full county tickets as well, according to league leaders.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In reporting raids by the police Wednesday night the Tribune mentioned the soft-drink parlor of Sam E. Grant, on South Fifth street, as one of the places visited. The place entered by the police was in fact that of S. W. Grant on Third street. The mistake was due to erroneous information given out at Central station. Sam Grant said on Friday morning that he has permitted no card games in his place of business since the recent police order against gambling. If every cloud has a silver lining, silver will be plentiful soon.

NORTHERN SKATING CLUBS WILL BREAK AWAY FROM EAST

DULUTH, Minn.—Duluth, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, in the Northwestern Skating association, will break away from the eastern association and in future will operate independently. F. J. Pratt, president of the Winnipeg Speed Skating club, is originator of the scheme. "The experience which we have had with eastern skaters this year has convinced us that it is time that we work independently," Mr. Pratt is quoted Friday. "The uncertainty which always attends the entries of the easterners in northern meets is one reason. Then, we have plenty of good skaters in our own territory and we believe that we can develop them and the circuit to a point where the entry of eastern skaters will be incidental."

The region along the Milwaukee track at Medary Junction was flooded level with the rails. She also said that flooded waters from the La Crosse river had inundated the public highway at Bangor. The depth of the water over the pike, she said, covered beds passing through it.

Travel is Difficult

To most all sections traveled by both automobile and horse drawn vehicles is impossible because of the fallen trees and branches and icy roadways. The sudden onslaught of the storm caught most of the farmers with horses unshod, hence unfit to travel on the slippery roads.

Twelve Lives Lost

CHICAGO.—The Northwest Friday was recovering from the severe storm which took a toll of twelve lives and caused damage running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Five persons were killed near Minneapolis early Thursday evening in a collision between the Winthrop river on the Great Northern and at Shawpohl. Four men froze to death in the Twin Cities, and a woman was frozen near Langford, S. D. and a man at Dilworth, Minn. A woman was electrocuted near Rochester.

Western Ontario cities and towns were reported today gradually recovering from the sleet and snowstorms of the past few days, with street car, telephone, water and telegraph services almost back to normal. The northern section of the province, however, was in the grip of a furious blizzard.

Cold Follows Storm

FARGO, N. D.—Railroad service on North Dakota branch lines disrupted by Wednesday's blizzard was gradually being restored Friday. Temperatures as low as ten below were reported. Farmers in the western part of the state are reported to be eagerly awaiting resumption of rail service to replenish depleted feed stores for their livestock.

Viroqua Hard Hit

VIROQUA.—The city of Viroqua is without electric lights, telephone service, and schools closed, Wednesday noon as the result of a heavy rain which visited this section on Tuesday night, accompanied by thunder and lightning. A sudden drop in the temperature consolidated the water dripping from trees and wires to the depth of a inch or more. Today there is scarcely a whole tree left in the city. Huge branches are piled high on lawns and streets, that caused, to each under the weight of the ice. Many of the new telephone and electric light poles lie on the ground, broken in several lengths and wires lie in the streets, and sidewalks and across houses and lawns. In account of the falling limbs and branches, it was unsafe for one to venture out and school closed at noon. Tuesday. Some of Viroqua's streets are impassable, being piled high with branches from trees, on either side. Jefferson street, one of the most beautiful in the city because of its magnificent trees, is piled several feet high and no traffic is possible, until the removal of the debris.

Owing to the fact that the whole city was furnished with new telephone poles and wiring last summer most of the trees were trimmed up in excellent shape, by the telephone company and presented a fine appearance, but many are now ruined as to beauty. Even the smaller fruit trees are broken, and hanging to the ground. It is not known when the electric light and telephone service will be restored. All social activities have been indefinitely postponed.

Bad at Rushford

RUSHFORD, Minn.—Farmers coming from Hart, Vinegar Hill and other small settlements near here but situated upon the ridges or higher ground up out of this valley, state that nearly all the trees upon the farms and bordering the roads have fallen victims to the terrific sleet storm of this week; the great weight of the ice upon the branches breaking the entire top off the largest trees, in many instances. Down here in the valley, where it was not so cold, the sleet melted fast when it struck the trees, but on the ridges the wind blew so coldly that monster icicles formed from every branch and twig. Many orchards will be ruined, it is feared. Numerous windbreaks of evergreens

GIRL, 14, IS HELD IN SLAYING

Allie Nolan Vance, 14, is being held for trial at Bardonia, Ky., in connection with the slaying of her father, Charles A. Vance, shot to death while sleeping. The girl came under suspicion because her father had whipped her and forbidden her to keep company with a young man. She denies the charges.

Storm at Trempealeau

TREMPEALEAU.—Trempealeau and vicinity has experienced one of the worst sleet storms in its history during the past twenty-four hours. About one a. m. on the morning of the 22nd the storm commenced with rain continuing all day, the weather turning colder about daylight and turning the rain to ice which formed on wires and trees breaking them down. The electric lighting plant was put out of commission leaving the city in darkness.

The Western Wisconsin Telephone company of which the local exchange is a part, is hit hardest, their poles are broken down and the wires are a twisted mass on the ground and it will be weeks before the system can be put into anything like normal condition again. Hundreds of beautiful shade trees have been broken down and ruined. The streets are filled with a mass of broken trees and wires and are impassable. For a time it was extremely dangerous for pedestrians to be on the streets as the air was full of falling limbs and wires. The city presents the appearance of one visited by a devastating cyclone. No telephone or telegraph exchange. No telegraph or telegraph communication can be had with the outside world. The roads leading from the country to Trempealeau present the same general appearance as the city streets. All rural lines are down. At daylight today the storm continues.

QUART OF MILK PER DAY IS NECESSARY FOR GROWING CHILD

Growth of Milk Habit in the Schools of La Crosse is Interesting Feature

Since the milk week campaign began men and women have been doing a lot of thinking and a heap of talking.

The other afternoon following a talk on the food value of milk given at one of our local clubs' meetings, two well known women were heard having the following argument:

Mrs. A, who has no children, said to Mrs. B, who is the mother of three lively high strung youngsters: "There is only one compensation in not having children and that is that you don't have to step and take stock of yourself ever so often to find out just what sort of a mother or father you are. You don't have to constantly figure out your value to your child as its mother."

Mrs. B was astonished and replied: "My! Why parents don't live time to question their relationship and worth to their children. They are so busy getting three meals a day, darning, mending and being parents that they haven't time to bother about what sort of a mother or father they are."

Mrs. A, who believes that the most wonderful thing and honor on earth is that of being a mother, came back with: "Yes, but are you so blinded by the great love which you have for your children that you over-indulge them with food which is harmful with amusements which keep their little nervous bodies up all hours. Are you too busy to see that it's your duty to see for example that your child gets a quart of milk a day, a food which builds up his mind, his body, his entire being and which will go far toward developing the best sort of a physical citizen?"

Mrs. B gave the twelve old story: "My children are bright. They can have milk if they want it, but they don't like it and prefer other things."

Need Quart Per Day

If you want to do the very best possible for your children and family see that they drink a quart of milk a day for one month. Check up on them and see how different every member of the family will feel, how much brighter and more active they will be.

Compare the amount of milk left at the various public schools as follows:

Jefferson, 411 half pint bottles or 205 1-2 pints per week.

Hamilton, 448 half pint bottles or 224 pints per week.

Weitzer, 340 half pint bottles or 170 pints per week.

Lincoln, 362 half pint bottles or 181 pints per week.

Hogan, 259 half pint bottles or 129 1-2 pints per week.

Washington, 206 half pint bottles or 103 pints per week.

Logan, 248 half pint bottles or 124 pints per week.

Franklin, 237 half pint bottles or 118 1-2 pints per week.

A total of 1,520 pints a week or 254 5-6 pints a day. Since a pint contains two cups of milk that would make 509 2-3 cups left at the grade schools each morning.

In Parochial Schools

In the Catholic Parochial schools the Catholic Women's League for several years has been furnishing the children in these schools with milk. However the number is very small as only a limited number of children, those selected by the sisters, are receiving milk during the day, are given this food.

Daily deliveries of the milk are made at the various schools each morning.

It is interesting to see many La Crosse parents, if we take our school survey as our guide, are like Mrs. B, letting the children indulge in food that is not good for them.

The other half working with the teachers' help is seeing that their children are having plenty of nature's perfect food.

This year the Masonic order became intensely interested in the subject of giving milk to the children in school and sent its check for $100 to the milk fund in the schools.

The teachers' council spent $88 this year for clean straws, "cause" as one youngster puts it, "tastes better and lasts longer through a straw."

JOBS WORTH MORE THAN ECONOMY IS LABOR'S VIEWPOINT

British Unions Oppose Economy Plan of Government; Ask Levy on Wealth

LONDON.—Dealing with the Geddes economy recommendation the national joint council, representing the trade union congress of the labor party and the parliamentary labor party, passed a resolution which expressed the opinion that important as the reduction of national expenditure may be, a more fundamental problem is production. The useful employment of nearly two million workers now in idleness would clearly be of greater economic value than any possible reduction of expenditure, the resolution declares, and that until a constructive policy for dealing with the economic situation is put into operation there can be no adequate solution of the nation's financial difficulties.

The resolution demands the liquidation of a substantial portion of the war debt by a gradual levy on accumulated wealth and supports a maximum reinforcement of navy, army and air force, the elimination of all waste of public expenditure and the enforcement of measures designed to secure the fullest efficiency of the public services.

It strenuously opposes all cuts that would impair the usefulness and efficiency of the socially productive services such as education, housing and public health.

ZBYSZKO FLOPS LAITINEN AND RETAINS TITLE

Long Gruelling Match Devoid of Action Goes One Hour and 33 1/2 Minutes

In a long, gruelling match devoid of action, Stanislas Zbyszko, heavy-weight champion, retained his title by defeating Armas Laitinen of Finland in one fall in the main event of the wrestling show conducted by Knutis of the Colosseum Wednesday. The champion won the fall and match in 1:33:30 with a leg hold and wrist lock.

The bout terminated unexpectedly after the announcer had told the packed building that the men had been wrestling for one hour and one-half hour. Suddenly Zbyszko, to the aid with a leg hold. As the Finn worked for a hold the Pole got to his hands and feet. Suddenly the champion reached back and secured Laitinen's leg and tossed him back. Laitinen on his back. In throwing his opponent Zbyszko sat on the Finn's stomach and held one leg, while with the other he secured a wrist lock. The Finn, although he made a great effort, grew weaker.

In the semi-final Jack Linow and John Proberg wrestled 15:00 to a draw. The judges, Jim Mullon and John "Doc" Krone, disagreed, and the referee called it a draw.

Otto Praetnick won from Al Chappe in the opener. He won the judges' decision after thirty minutes of grappling. Jack Martinson defeated Jack Rogers in the second bout.

FINDS GIANT CLOVER, NEW NATURE FREAK

By ALBERT S. GREGG

NEWBERRY, Mo.—Professor H. D. Hughes of the Iowa Agricultural College at Ames, Ia., here on a leave of absence is a promising rival of Luther Burbank in developing plant life, and of Henry Ford and Muskeg Shouls in producing cheap fertilizer.

Professor Hughes is the discoverer of "humum," a remarkable new clover, which attains a growth of five to ten feet in the first year.

In explaining the significance of what he has done Hughes made this statement:

"Soil demands nitrogen and organic matter as a fertilizer in order to get the best results.

"Nitrogen must be obtained from the air either by a chemical process such as is proposed at Muskeg Shouls or by plowing under certain kinds of plants in which the nitrogen has been fixed by bacteria.

Clover as Soil Renewer
"Clover is the ideal soil renewer, because it contains the nitrogen and the organic elements.

"The usual practice is to plant clover with wheat and after the wheat has been harvested the clover is plowed under with the wheat stubble. Nature has so adjusted the rate of growth that when the wheat is out the clover is only a few inches high but afterwards it shoots up rapidly.

"Here is where humum is especially valuable. It grows to a height of six, eight and ten feet in one season, and when the farmer plows it under, he puts back in his soil a fertilizer of the very highest value and in great abundance. He gets both quantity and quality."

Hughes discovered this new clover while he was testing seeds from various sections in his greenhouse at Ames. As soon as farmers and seedmen learned about it, Hughes was deluged with special orders. One man ordered a check for $10,000 for six seeds, while another sent a check signed in blank and urged Hughes to fill in his own price.

$19,000 From 50 Seeds

The value of this discovery is shown from the fact that one man reported he sold a crop of clover for $19,000 which had been developed from 50 seeds.

In mailing samples to experiment stations all over the United States, telling of wonderful results obtained from the new annual seed clover.

After a lengthy investigation Hughes discovered that the new clover came from Alabama and he traced it to a locality near Newberry, where it was growing wild.

"How do you account for humum?" Hughes was asked. "Is it an evolution from the biennial variety, or is it a hybrid?"

Is New Creation

"Neither," he replied, "is it a mutation—a change wrought by nature which practically amounts to a new creation, just how it is done we do not understand, but those of us who are constantly experimenting with plant life know that such things do happen."

"New varieties of wheat, corn and other grains come into existence in that way. Of course we all know that estimating the value of the new clover at $8,000,000 a bushel.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Multisud, a pure oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Multisud at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonsful of Multisud in a can of shampoos with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair grows quickly and evenly and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Residues, if found, and takes out every particle of dirt, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisud.

derived from seedmen, farmer and export stations all over the United States, telling of wonderful results obtained from the new annual seed clover.

After a lengthy investigation Hughes discovered that the new clover came from Alabama and he traced it to a locality near Newberry, where it was growing wild.

"How do you account for humum?" Hughes was asked. "Is it an evolution from the biennial variety, or is it a hybrid?"

Is New Creation

"Neither," he replied, "is it a mutation—a change wrought by nature which practically amounts to a new creation, just how it is done we do not understand, but those of us who are constantly experimenting with plant life know that such things do happen."

"New varieties of wheat, corn and other grains come into existence in that way. Of course we all know that

If your stomach is sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lump, a head dizzy and aches; you feel cases and acids and emetic undigested food—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and dis-

For, Kellogg's Bran does such great health work for everyone who eats it without the slightest discomfort or irritation. It keeps the intestines clear and purifies the whole system, soise can get the dangerous habit, like pills

The natural mechanical action of Kellogg's Bran is astounding to those who are not familiar with it as a positive and permanent relief from constipation! The great thing to understand is to eat it every day—at least two tablespoonsful.

FORMER SERVICE MEN ARE URGED TO GO INTO POLITICS

Those Who are Qualified Should Help Comrades Declares Army Officer

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Former service men who are qualified to hold official positions should get into politics, and help improve conditions for former comrades in arms, Col. Peter Pajewski told the Red Arrow Officers' association at its annual dinner here.

"The present day politician has done very little for the former soldier," Col. Pajewski said. "He has belittled him at every opportunity. The veteran should utilize his strength at the polls, and put in office men who are willing to do something for former service men."

"Former service men have been lying in hospitals at Marquette, Post-haven and Blue Mount from two to three years and very few outsiders visit them. Those who have should be complimented."

Francis N. Swistlik, speaking on compensation for former service men said, "World War veterans should not strive for the bonus; that should be the work of civic organizations."

HEALTH DISPENSARY HERE TO BE RUN BY VETERANS' BUREAU

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—U. S. health dispensaries in Milwaukee, Ashland, La Crosse and Green Bay will be turned over to the veterans' bureau for administration following an order issued at Washington, according to reports received here.

The direct administration of the medical facilities of the government by the bureau will strengthen the services to former soldiers and increase efficiency, authorities believe. The same change is to be made in all states.

All dispensaries under the public health service will be changed over soon, it was said.

WEEGHMAN'S "LUCKY" IN LOVE, TOO

Charles H. Weeghman and his new bride are on a honeymoon following an elopement to East St. Louis, Ill. Weeghman, known as "Lucky Charlie," worked from a waiter's job to the head of a $10,000,000 corporation controlling a string of restaurants in Chicago and other cities. He later became prominent as federal baseball league manager and owner of the Chicago Cubs. His bride, formerly Miss Carol Osmond but model, was noted as "the girl who wears 10,000 hats a year."

BUSINESS TIPS

BY ALBERT APPLE

Steel ingot production now is more than twice as big as last July, when the industry hit bottom and started its slow saw-tooth upward movement. Steel output is 70 per cent as large as in 1913. Mills are averaging around 45 per cent capacity. Difference in percentages is due to increase in productive capacity during the last eight years.

Lumber

Lumber mills in the northwest report production nearing four-fifths of normal. New business is at about the same rate.

Bear

Market price of leading representative oil securities has slumped 34 per cent since the peak of early July 1919.

Three-fourths of Mexico's oil output, now near the record, is flowing into United States. This continues as a bear influence. Veteran operators believe that Mexico will be a tremendous crude producer for years, despite wells going to salt in some fields. Many new fields may be opened.

Mail

Postage stamp sales in 50 leading cities are running about 5 per cent bigger than a year ago.

Freight

Freight car loadings are around 750,000 cars a week. This is materially larger than in the corresponding period of 1921 or 1919.

Freight cars ordered for 1922 delivery, already total more than the entire output in 1919.

Dividends

Industrial dividends in February will total around $40,000,000, compared with $41,000,000 in February, 1920.

Coal

Bituminous coal output is close to 10,000,000 tons a week. Production now is at about the same rate as in the corresponding period of 1918 and 1920.

Loans

Federal reserve banks have reduced loans about $255,000,000 in the last 60 days. A sixth of the reduction was in the New York district.

THE ORIGINAL POE

This amusing story is attributed to former President Taft, who is said to have told it at a literary dinner. A negro, he said, knocked at Mrs. Brown's back door and asked for a job. "What's your name?" Mrs. Brown asked. "Mah name's Poe, mah'am," he replied. "Poe, eh?" said Mrs. Brown, interested that he should have the same name as the author of "The Raven." "I suppose some of your family once worked for Edgar Allen Poe, didn't they?" The negro's eyes bulged, and he struck a resounding whack on his chest. "Why, mah'am," he said, "Ah, is Edgar Allen Poe?"

Difference in Greetings

About a hundred years ago there was an English duke, who used to return home at daybreak after a night's gambling at his club. There were only two persons stirring in that part of London at that hour—the duke and a colder commencing his day's work. They always greeted each other, "Good night, friend," said the duke. "Good morning, sir," said the cobbler.

Avoid Diphtheria

A sore throat is a good breeding place for diphtheria germs. Protect your children by never neglecting a Sore Throat. You can wisely depend upon TONSILINE. Give Tonsiline upon the first appearance of Sore Throat—don't give diphtheria a chance in that throat in its weakened condition. When TONSILINE is swallowed it comes directly in contact with the diseased surface and induces a healthy condition of the membranes—then the system can better defend the throat if attacked by diphtheria germs. Keep TONSILINE in the house always. 35c., 60c. and $1.00.

Shoe Lore

Many superstitions are connected with the shoe; for instance, it is thought un lucky to put either shoe on the wrong foot. Because Augustus bridegroom who touched her on the Caesar was nearly assassinated by a lead with it to denote his lordly authority one day when he put on his thorty.

left shoe first, a saying has arisen that the right "shoe" must be put on first unless its owner wishes to court misfortune. Pythagoras, old Greek sage, told his disciples to put their left foot into their bath first. In Anglo-Saxon marriages the father thought un lucky to put either shoe on the wrong foot. Because Augustus bridegroom who touched her on the Caesar was nearly assassinated by a lead with it to denote his lordly authority one day when he put on his thorty.

APPOINTMENT OF JUSTICE AWAITS BLAINE'S RETURN

Judge Thompson, Brother of Late Local Lawyer, Pushed for the Place

MADISON, Wis.—There will be no appointment of a supreme court judge until Governor Blaine returns from the south. Positions for a number of different persons have been received at the executive office. The Dane County Bar association favors the appointment of Judge E. Ray of the circuit court. Central Wisconsin is urging the appointment of Circuit Judge George Thompson, brother of the late James Thompson, La Crosse. From Racine comes letters urging the appointment of Circuit Judge E. B. Holden. There are many telegrams from Portage urging the appointment of Daniel H. Grady, Portage. M. U. Olmich, Madison, who has represented Governor Blaine in important litigation for the state before the federal and state courts, is also mentioned as a possibility.

The supreme court will not meet to hand down decisions before March 11, which will give Governor Blaine an opportunity to consider all of the candidates whose names have been presented.

A PROPHECY

A farmer in the cotton belt of South Carolina was mowing along at a lively clip in his four-thousand dollar touring car, and as he turned into his private driveway that leads up to his sumptuous home a hell weevil hopped up on his shoulder and said, "Let me drive a little."

"No."

"Aw, come on. Let me drive!" repeated the hell weevil.

"Nothing doing."

"Might as well let me drive your old car," retorted the hell weevil, "because I'm going to take it, anyhow, next year," Judge.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

The Christmas tree, brilliant with candles and tinsel and bending under its load of gifts, has become so indispensable as a part of our Yuletide festivities that we can scarcely imagine a celebration of Europe's has been popular since the Middle Ages at the very least, while learned men disagree as to whether its real origin should be traced to Yggdrasil, the tree life in Scandinavian mythology, or to one of the customs of the old Roman harvest festival, the Saturnalia. But among English-speaking peoples it has been so recently introduced that it may almost be called an innovation upon the historic Christmas. In England itself it was almost unknown before the middle of the last century, although English travelers had seen the pretty custom in European households and written much in praise of it.

The straight and narrow path is wide enough for its traffic.

BLAINE ATTENDING MEETING OF GUARD IN NEW ORLEANS

Discuss Program to Save Guard from Adverse National Legislation

MADISON, Wis.—Governor John Blaine left for New Orleans Friday to attend the meeting of National guard officers from different states. Complaint is made that recent legislation of congress is striking a direct blow at the continuance of the National guard. A number of the states decided on a conference of governors and representatives of different states at New Orleans to make out a program to save the guard. Governor Blaine will be absent from Madison about ten days. During his absence Lieutenant Governor George M. Comins, Chippewa Falls, will act as governor. Lawrence Bros., private secretary, who has been absent from the executive office a week, has returned to Madison to be of service to Governor Comins. The National guard in Wisconsin has had one of the highest records for service and Governor Blaine is insistent that no legislation be enacted that will cripple the guard. Because of the efficiency of the guard it was one of the first prepared units ready to go into action in the world war. It is expected that a number of other national guard officers, including Adjutant General Orlando Holway will attend the New Orleans conference. All the boll weevils are in the south; but all the bumbays are not. The right side of politics is the outside.

A prominent politician, although a Scotsman, relates a story against himself and his fellow-countrymen. While on a visit to the Canary Islands once he was feeling very lonely and inquired of an official, "Are there many Scotsmen in these parts?" "Not many," was the reply. "Just a few, but quite enough."

SHAKES HANDS WITH JUDGE AS HE DRAWS YEAR IN STATE PEN

Moonshiner Convicted of Stealing from Shriner Gets Minimum Term

Ed. Marks, found guilty of picking the pocket of James McCusker, a Shriner formerly of Red Wing, Minn., but now of Eldora, Ia., on August 13, last, during the Shrine ceremonial, was sentenced to a year in the state penitentiary by Judge Chester A. Fowler in circuit court late Thursday afternoon. And just to show the court that he appreciated what was being done for him, Marks reached up a huge hand and shook hands with the court.

A plea for clemency was made for Marks by his attorney Fred H. Hartwell on the grounds that he had already served about 200 days in the county jail and that he was a trustworthy, law-abiding citizen. The undersheriff told of the assistance rendered by Marks in guarding Herman Gensan, stick-up man who robbed the old Style Inn, and preventing any further attempts on the latter's part to break out of jail.

"You must take into consideration the fact that Marks was convicted of larceny before and also the fact that he is a moonshiner," said the court. "Now when you get out of prison do you think you can stop selling moonshine whiskey? What is the penalty for larceny from the person, Mr. District Attorney?"

District Attorney Reid read the penalty, one to 20 years, from the statute book. Marks nodded his brow.

"Now remember this," said the court, "I could sentence you to 20 years, I will not, though, I will sentence you to a year in state's prison. I want you to be a better man when you come out. Stop this moonshine business. And always remember that 20 years that you could have been sentenced to serve."

Marks promised he would.

Mr. Hartwell then asked for a court order returning to Marks the $33 that figured in the trial. "I will not," said the court. "That belongs to the little Scotchman, what's his name? McCusker? Yes, that money will be returned to McCusker."

THREE OF FAMILY DIE OF FURNACE FUMES

MONTREAL.—How three members of a family of six succumbed to poisonous fumes from a furnace was unfolded before Judge McMahon Thursday at the inquest into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe Aubin, and their only daughter, Cyndie, and their one day old son, Cyrille.

Although the tragedy occurred ten days ago, details concerning it were not made public until today. The father and husband died this morning while his wife and her little baby died on February 17.

A unique feature of the case is that the mother did the housework the day following the birth of her youngest son, because the father was confined to his bed by sickness. On account of her husband's illness she volunteered to fix the furnace, and in doing so, neglected to leave the damper open.

REED DEMANDS THAT HARVEY BE RECALLED

CHICAGO, Ill.—In a speech here Thursday night, Senator James A. Reed, Missouri, democrat, demanded that George Harvey, American ambassador to Great Britain, be recalled. Senator Reed declared the ambassador's "recent performance should be erased from the memory of mankind."

MABEL SHIPPERS ELECT

MABEL, Minn.—At the recent annual meeting of the Mabel Livestock Shipping association, the officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, O. J. Peterson; vice president, P. A. Ford; secretary and treasurer, N. H. Nelson. Directors: Albert Spande, B. E. Anderson, Selva Selva, V. M. Stokopf, Joseph Thompson. The association shipped during 1921, 101 single and three double-deck cars of hogs totaling 6,575 animals; 29 cars of cattle, totaling 562 animals; two cars of sheep, totaling 208 animals; making a total weight of 2,529,800 pounds. Total receipts for 1921 were $173,822.57 with a profit of $47,455 to the association.

SPRING GROVE WINS

In the group declamatory contest of southeastern Minnesota held on Friday, February 17, at Harmony, Alice Halvorson representing Spring Grove won first place in the girls' contest and Andrew Miner won second place to take part in the division contest to be held on Friday, February 24, at Winona. Miss Agnes Glasco has coached the contestants.

Sure Enough! Why Didn't He?

Ellsworth, age five, would use profanity in spite of his parents' admonitions. While playing in the front yard and having a "good time of it" one day, the Baptist clergyman passed. He paused and said:

"Ellsworth, I am afraid—or—I am afraid!"

"Why in blazes don't you run, Ellen?"—Exchange.

HAVE YOU FINISHED YOUR PRIZE ESSAY? CONTEST ENDS SATURDAY

HAVE you finished your essay for the Tribune contest? Remember that the contest ends Saturday at noon. No essays will be considered that do not reach the Essay Editor by that time. Get busy! Delay may cost you one of the prizes—$20 in gold, fourteen photos of the Talmadge sisters autographed in their own hand, and scores of tickets to the Rivoli theater.

Put down your impressions of the points in which the movies have improved in the last few years—did you see the old and new Norma Talmadge films now at the Rivoli?—and shoot 'em in. No essays over 300 words, and each must state whether the writer is an adult, a student of the normal or high school, a grammar grade pupil or a pupil of the grades below the sixth. Open to all—and there are so many prizes in each class that your chance to win one is first class. Only—make it snappy!

NORMA TALMADGE—RIVOLI

Norma Talmadge has done many fine things in the line of screen entertainment, but probably nothing that will be quite as generally liked as "The Wonderful Thing," her latest production, which is now at the Rivoli theater. Miss Talmadge has a role that gives her opportunity for exhibiting a decided talent for comedy, an accomplishment which is generally supposed to have gone entirely to her sister Constance, at least as far as the Talmadge family is concerned. In addition the story does not deprive the audience at the theater of seeing Miss Talmadge do some of the emotional acting which has made her so popular.

The abilities of Norma as a comedienne are the first surprise. The second surprise is in finding that Mrs. Lydie Hoyt is in the cast. It must be admitted that the announcement that this New York society matron had gone in for pictures and would have a part in a Norma Talmadge production had been noised abroad, but it was expected that she would appear in but a very minor part. The second surprise, therefore, was the discovery that the young woman who so very capably played the rather difficult role of Catherine Marguerite Truesdale was in reality the young woman who has forsaken the gay whirl of the upper strata of society to appear before the camera.

THE DE HAVENS—MAJESTIC

In "My Lady Friends," the first National attraction co-starring Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, which is now playing at the Majestic theatre, there is a delicious vein of satire on the methods employed by private detectives.

In keeping with the farcical trend of the plot, the activities of the sleuths are buttressed with an artistic touch.

Desirous of learning more about the friendship of her husband for three lovely young women, Mrs. James Smith, the wife of a manufacturer of bibles, enlists the services of the detective firm of Isaacs and Murphy. They are sent to Atlantic City, where Smith has a summer home and where his wife has learned he is to meet the feminine trio, and immediately resort to various disguises to spy on their victim.

Many are the characters they assume in shadowing the home, but despite all their efforts they are unable to discover a single bit of evidence that would incriminate Smith. They only report the arrival of each of the "friends," and after the last one has been accounted for, Mrs. Smith goes to the cottage to investigate. Despite the fact that there are two more women in the place than the detectives had reported, Mrs. Smith fails to discover any of them. So she goes back to the hotel and finds the pseudo detectives.

AT THE RIVIERA

It is no easy task to run a canoe through the rapids of the rivers in the mountains of Northern Oregon. It is doubly difficult to go through these rapids in a paddleless canoe toward great falls without a serious accident occurring. Yet this is just the feat that Pauline Starke, the heroine of Vitaphone's "Flower of the North," performed. Showing at the Riviera Friday and Saturday.

This brave girl faces death in order to make one of the most thrilling scenes in the production. She overcame the canoe a hundred yards above the falls at a point where the water was rushing on at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour. For several moments she breaths the current waiting for Henry B. Walthall, the hero of the production, to swim out and rescue her.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Back-achy

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular courses of uric must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious diseases.

DOMSTRICH WINS A VERDICT FOR $250 FOR CHILD'S DEATH

Jury Finds Schaller Failed to Use Ordinary Care and Failed to Keep Proper Lookout

Carl Domstrich was awarded a judgment for $250 by a jury in circuit court in his suit against George Schaller of Holmen, for damages as the result of the killing of Domstrich's four-year-old son Donald by Schaller's automobile on the Ross street viaduct, March 15, 1920.

The jury found that Schaller was driving his automobile at the time of the accident faster than 15 miles an hour, that Schaller failed to keep a proper lookout ahead of his automobile and that the approximate cause of the accident was the want of ordinary care. The jury, however, also found that Schaller was not driving his car faster than was reasonable

BUSY WEEK-END FOR LOCAL NORMAL SCHOOL ATHLETES: HOCKEY, TRACK, BASKETBALL

Coach of Luther College Quint Coming Here Saturday Was Former Mentor of the High School Here in 1909

WITH the hockey team at Winona today playing against the Winona champs to decide the championship of the two cities, two men going to Madison Saturday to take part in the indoor track and field meet held under the auspices of the University of Wisconsin Athletic Association, and a basketball game with Luther College at Decorah, Iowa, Saturday night, the normal school athletes will have a busy week-end.

The hockey team, which was undefeated during the winter carnival here met a picked team of Winona hockey players today at the winter carnival of the up-river city. The men who made the trip are: McCormick, Shields, Borgstrom, R. Gunderson, Glasbrenner, Bott, Dean and Franks.

Two men to Madison.

Regent and Armstrong will represent the normal school at the relay meet at Madison Saturday. They will enter the high jump, the running events. Regent is the holder of the normal school high jump record, which he made last June with a jump of six feet. He is also a relay man of note. Armstrong is a well known high jumper and track man. He is a former member of the U. of W. track team, and is now taking the physical education course at the normal school.

With two of his men on the sack list, Coach Keeler is feeling a hard game against Luther college Saturday night. Stoneham, the crack guard of the La Crosse quint is in bed with a bad cold, and Postover, the big center, is also suffering from a cold and may not be able to play. Both, however, are expected to be in shape for the game with Whitewater, which will probably be played on Tuesday or Wednesday night of next week.

Dosef Was Coach Here

Ivan Dosef, coach of Luther college is well remembered by many local sport followers as the coach of the high school football team in 1909. The big Bulgarian played football with Chicago university in 1907 and 1908 and was all-western tackle both years. He came here in 1909, but remained for only one season. Since that time he has held many important coaching positions in different schools, and has made a success in all cases.

"Tubby" Keeler, who is at present coaching athletics at the normal school, was a tackle on Dosef's team in 1909. Some of the other players on the same team were: Fitz Shaw, captain; Doc Tiedeman, Bob Ray, Howard and Gene Handrolmark, Ed Stawman, "Mike" Hayes, "Rods" Weimar, Art Strum, Stevenson, Schlabach and Shirley. Lucien Reid, present district attorney of La Crosse county, was manager of the team.

TWO OFFICIAL GAMES REMAIN ON SCHEDULE OF LA CROSSE NORMAL

Whitewater and Milwaukee Normals to be Met on Local Floor this Year

With but two conference games remaining on the schedule, the normal school basketball team bids fair to claim the state's championship again this season. The conference teams still to be met are Whitewater and Milwaukee, both of which have been defeated on their own floors by the Keelites already this year. Milwaukee was humbled 27 to 13, while all that Whitewater was able to score was 14 against 44 for the locals.

The next game on the slate for the La Crosse five is with Luther college Saturday night. Little is known of the strength of the Iowa aggregation, but the enrollment is about the same as that of the normal school, so a good team ought to be turned out. This will be the first time that teams from the two schools have met since last spring, when the newly organized normal school baseball team made the trip to Decorah, winning 4 to 2.

PRAIRIE CHICKENS DYING BY HUNDREDS BECAUSE OF SNOW

FARGO, N. D.—Prairie chickens are dying by the hundreds in North Dakota, because of the snow blanket depriving the birds of their source of food, according to reports received here by C. E. Manning, member of the state fish and game board.

While it is impossible for birds to seek food at farm houses and at the outskirts of villages and towns, Mr. Manning has dispatched a general appeal, urging that grain and bread crumbs be thrown upon the snow for the feathered folk.

Prairie chickens were never so plentiful in North Dakota, said Mr. Manning.

RICKARD UNDER FOUR INDICTMENTS TODAY MISCONDUCT CHARGE

Promoter Pleads Not Guilty to all Four Charges; Furnishes $25,000 Bail

NEW YORK.—George T. Rickard, sports promoter, Thursday was under four indictments charging him with misconduct with four school girls whose ages range from 11 to 15.

Two of the indictments, alleging abduction of Nellie Gasko, 14, and Anna Hess, 11, were returned by a supreme court grand jury. The other pair, handed down several days ago, charged the promoter with criminal assault upon Alice Rick, 14, and Sarah Schofield, 15.

Over protest, Rickard's counsel, Justice Masserover, raised Rickard's bail from $10,000 fixed for him when the first two indictments were returned, to $25,000. The promoter pleaded not guilty to all of the indictments and supplied the $25,000 in cash.

Today's indictments alleged that Rickard abducted the Gasko girl on November 12 last, and the Hess child on December 18, the latter date being the one on which he was accused of assaulting her companion, Alice Rick, in a Forty-seventh street apartment just a few steps from Fifth avenue.

NEW YORK.—Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, Thursday was indicted twice by the grand jury on charges of abduction of Anna Hess, aged 11, and Nellie Gasko, aged 14, school girls, and his bail was raised from $10,000 to $25,000. Rickard pleaded not guilty to both indictments.

LA CROSSE TOSSERS LEAVE FRIDAY FOR 2 ROAD CONTESTS

Prairie du Chien and Richland Center Opponents of Red and Black Quintet

The La Crosse high basketballers left this noon for Prairie du Chien, where they will meet the tossing aggregation of that city in a return game. Prairie met with defeat three weeks ago when they played La Crosse on the latter's floor the score being 24 to 12. Prairie showed up good in this contest, playing a fast and exciting game. They will no doubt come back much stronger on their home floor.

Saturday night the locals play the second game of the trip with Richland Center who were also beaten by La Crosse on the local floor two weeks ago by a score of 24 to 13. Richland is considered one of the strongest quintets in the high school conference this year, having won from Madison who in turn defeated La Crosse.

La Crosse is in the best of condition after a strenuous week of practice. They have brushed up on the few weak points seen in the Madison game, and are now ready to meet all comers. In any event, these games will be hot contests.

The Red and Black men who will make this trip are: Hargel, Holly, Tubbs, Esch, Wiegant, Kosch, Harrier and Hinds.

Will The Soldiers Get A Bonus?

To the jobless ex-fighter who needs the cash, to the Congressman who needs votes in November, to the taxpayer who must eventually foot the bill, the question whether a bonus shall be paid to our soldiers of the great war and how the money is to be raised to pay it, is of increasing interest.

To raise the money to pay a bonus various new taxes are suggested. The idea of legalizing and taxing the sale of light wines and beers won the enthusiastic advocacy of the New York World. The National Grange comes out for an excess profits tax. Some Congressmen suggest that taxation may be avoided by paying a tax out of the savings realized by reductions in the Navy and in Army and Navy personnel.

Why tax anybody, asks Arthur Brisbane in the New York American, "why not simply print the currency and pay the soldiers with perfectly good money manufactured by the Government at the cost of paper and printing, without taxing anyone or disturbing any business?"

The Daily News, New York, defends the bonus as "simple justice to the nation's defenders" and "an investment in good will." The financial objections do not greatly impress the Seattle Times, which "ventures the modest prediction that bonus legislation will be enacted at this session and that money will be found with which to finance the payment to former service men."

But the opposition to the bonus is being vigorously voiced by such widely scattered dailies as the New Haven Journal Courier, Newark News, Syracuse Herald, Buffalo Commercial, Philadelphia Enquirer, Dallas News, and Louisville Courier Journal, not to mention the truck loads of letters and telegrams being sent to the Capitol and the White House.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week presents all the arguments current for and against the bonus, and the various methods that have been suggested to finance it.
